

Part A

Last night I left work late at around 9 pm. When I came out of the office, most people had already gone home. The street was very dark and quiet. I hadn't experienced such a thing before. While I was walking, a car pulled over. I looked at the driver.

I was sure I had seen this man before. I wondered: Who can it be? He waved at me and came out of the car. He asked if he could drive me home. Suddenly I remembered.

Part B

The woman: Do you usually exercise?

The man: Yes, I do.

The man: Doing exercise is one of my good habits.

The woman: What sport do you play?

The man: Swimming is my favorite.

The woman: How often do you exercise?

The man: I go jogging every day before the breakfast.

The woman: Is there anyone who exercises with you?

The man: I go jogging with my older brother.

The woman: Where do you exercise?

The man: At the nearby park. There are some exercising machines for people to use.

The woman: Why do you like exercise?

The man: I like moving. For me life without moving is like a picture without color.

Part C

Woman: What type of websites do you often search for?

Man: I prefer entertainment and education websites.

Woman: What do you visit those websites for?

Man: I use them to study online or relax after working.

Woman: Can you read websites in English?

Man: Yes, I can. Most useful websites are written in English.

Woman: What's the most popular website in your country?

Man: I'm not quite sure, but I guess it would be Wikipedia.org.

Part D

Dr. Gharib was born in Tehran in 1288. After receiving his diploma, he went abroad to study medicine. In 1316, he became a physician and then came back to his homeland. In 1347, this center was founded by Dr. Gharib and one of his close friends. Dr. Gharib was also a generous man. He spared no pains to cure sick children. He was regarded as a dedicated physician. He was known as a distinguished university professor, too. The first Persian textbook on children's diseases was written by him.